uGRIDD Launched its Beta Version Website www.uGRIDD.com

October 22, 2012

uGRIDD Corporation launched and exhibited a beta version of its website at the CMAA (Construction Management Association of America) 2012 Conference.

The website offers services that allow customers to show, share, and find infrastructure data. The website also provides useful time-saving tools to manipulate and process geo-referenced data.

Some of the key features on the website include:

- Location based queries (uFIND) based on Location of Interest (LOI)
- Sharing data with the general public for free
- Sharing data with user groups
- Creating URLs from geo-referenced data and sharing it with others
- Worldwide grid transformation with WGS 84

uGRIDD will market its services to infrastructure professionals as web based tools for infrastructure data sharing.
